

ARE PEOPLE WILLING TO HELP?

More than 46% said YES!

Willingness to implement change

Most survey participants who answered this question are willing to contribute their time and talent to community improvements (54.9%), while just over 35% would contribute both time and talent and financial help. Nearly 10% of respondents indicated that they would be willing to contribute financially.

Compared to other small towns in Iowa, Adel residents are more willing to become involved in improving their community. In 2014, on average, 43% of residents in small, rural towns volunteered to help with a community project.¹

WHAT DID PEOPLE SAY THEY ARE WILLING TO DO?

Survey Participants Said...

"I grew up in Adel and moved away. Coming back to Adel and seeing all of the improvements [is] wonderful. Keep up the good work."

"Adel is a growing community with younger demographics. Diverse recreational opportunities will become increasingly important."

HOW DO YOU GET PEOPLE TO HELP?

Ask, Show, and Advertise Opportunities

In 2014, the most common reason residents in small-town Iowa said they didn't become involved in community projects is that no one asked them (34%). Twenty-eight percent on average said that they don't have time, which is significantly lower than the 2004 average of 59%. Sixteen percent indicated that they didn't know how to become involved, and 7% said that no community project needed volunteers.¹ These results indicate that the best ways to get people involved in community projects is to simply ask, along with advertising opportunities through traditional and social media outlets.
